

This wiki is really really easy to use, here are some tips to get you started.

- Deki Wiki Links
- Technical Wiki Writing
- Wiki Problems
- Wiki Tricks
 - Add a list of subpages
 - Image Size
 - Include content from another web site
 - Keeping Track Of Updates

Lab Rats

You can add whatever you want to your own lab area, however we encourage you to add comments to the main pages. This is very important and provides as much value as editing/writing the page itself. Below are some tips to get you started:

Tips:

- use facts and state where you got your facts (e.g. "in my Vespa manual the timing says it should be set to 18")
- suggest replacement text that people can cut and paste (e.g. "add a warning like 'make sure the exhaust clamp is tight...' after the last paragraph")
- share experiences (e.g. "I tried this and it worked great" or "I found the above did not help that much with a standard exhaust")
- share other useful information (e.g. "Anyone reading the above should also check out this link...")